

Dear Pygora class,

How are you all? Well, this week Purple Mash has been beeping at me constantly! More of you are accessing it to get in touch or complete some work which has been brilliant to see! I'm so impressed by the monster and colour poems you produced as they were quite tricky! They were funny and creative and I was so proud of those of you that had a go at them! Here's a couple of them I thought I would share with you all.

Colour Poem

my orange likes flying in the wind like the autumn leaves my green holds on to the ground like grass my yellow beams of light like the sun my pink grows like a flower my red is royall like the red carpet my blue stands high like the sky my black is silent like a night my purple is a show of like a fire work my white is soft like the clouds my brown is smelly like a poo my grey is grumpy like a storm my gold expects respect where ever it goes my silver is rich and has a shine my rainbow is as happy as can because thats where the pretty colours can be seen

CPR's poem

mr red is collecting the weeds,
mr red is very nice,
and as happy as he could be.

Mr Orange is helping him by bieng nice and caring,
but he didnt know what clothes he was wearing,
he let everyone know he was the boss,
and that is was just their loss.

Part of MN's

Mr Yellow is a bright happy guy, although he was very shy,
he tried his best to make people laugh,
so he pretended to be a girrafe.

I landed on the Moon
I saw something that look like a baboon.
It could leap.
It sounded like a sheep.
It had three eyes
It could wave goodbye.
Then I saw another one
It had quite a big bum.
It'sfarts smelled like heaven.
But it can't count to eleven.
It was also blind.
Because it has one eye.
It's three tentacles were not thick.
But it could reach a stick.
The aliens could sing tralalalala
The aliens could sing falalalala.
The singing drove me mad!
So I waved goodbye Lads!

WS's alien poem!

Well done to those of you who sent us a poster to say thank you to the NHS workers. These are now up on our website and we have sent them to Kent Community Health so hopefully some of our awesome NHS workers will see them! We have also sent them to Mrs de Roeck's friend Ben, who thought they were amazing, he's even added them to his work Instagram account!

I've spoken to more of you this week and I'm still trying to get hold of the last few, but this week it sounds like a lot of you have been having so much fun at home! MLR has been doing some baking, (and she knows I'm upset that she didn't save me any!) and a lot of giggling. GN has been making some tiktok videos which I saw, they were brilliant (her head was put in a bowl of water to stop her talking!). AS made me so jealous as she's been outside playing games and enjoying her hot tub and BBQs! LJ has been going on lots of walks, learning sign language and playing with her brothers! AB has been doing so much work! A few hours every day as well as enjoying some activities with everyone at home.

WS has been doing some science experiments in the house (hopefully not making too much mess with the food colourings!).

CPR has been making a model of a river system in a valley!

How amazing is that!!

If anyone else wants to send me some photos for next week's letter to show me what you've been up to I would love that!

And now the part you've all been waiting for.....home learning!!!

This week I would like you to:

1. Log onto Purple Mash and complete some of the 2Do's and send me an email, because I do love to hear about what you're up to and have a chat!
2. Practise those pesky times tables! (2-12s). See if you can create your own game that involves using them! Or can anyone create the most inspiring, awesome poster to help other people learn and remember them?!
3. Check Purple Mash 2Do's there are activities on there, and log into Spelling Shed, there are spellings up there to have a go at practising! Well done to LM and RB who have been smashing their scores on there and getting up high in the school rankings!!
4. Pick a Science experiment from those we sent out, complete it and then send me some photos of it and let me know how it went!
5. Reading! Just lots and lots and lots of reading! When I spoke to EF he told me how he had read loads of books already and wanted to move onto something more challenging and exciting!!! Have you completed the reading comprehension tasks in your home learning packs? If not, have a go at those! If you have go to <https://www.teachitprimary.co.uk/reading-comprehension-ks2/information-retrieval-narrative/tags/2638> and download the free PDF versions to have a go at, then send the answers to me and I can have a look through them!

I'll catch up with you this week Pygora, we miss you and hope to see you soon!

Stay safe everyone, be kind and look after each other.

Love Mr Harlow, Mrs Farrar and Mrs Neall
